Margaret "Maggie" Gloyeske joined the MJ team in 2017 as a client executive in our ever-expanding Benefits Consulting department.

In her role, Maggie is responsible for the development and management of employee benefits strategies for large group clientele. She and her team work with clients to better understand their core goals and initiatives in order to effectively evaluate, analyze, plan, and manage their benefits strategy.

Maggie also provides strategic direction to our clients aiming to maximize employee benefits to support an organization by managing costs and risk, enhancing employee recruitment and retention, and improving communication of benefits to employees.

With over 25 years of industry experience, Maggie's vast market knowledge in health risk management, employee engagement, talent development, and benefits technology has made her an essential addition to the team. Maggie's ability to develop and manage effective benefits strategies for large group clients has been instrumental in enhancing client experience.

In her personal life, Maggie enjoys spending quality time with her family and friends.
