Shauna Henley joined the MJ team in 2013 as a wellness coordinator in our Benefits Consulting department and quickly developed into becoming MJ's director of population health and wellness. In 2022, Shauna advanced to the role of client executive in the Employee Benefits department. In this capacity, she leads the client experience, overseeing the development and execution of clients' benefit plan strategies with the support of her team.

Prior to joining MJ, Shauna gained professional experience as a wellness intern at both Interactive Intelligence and MJ, where she worked to develop structured wellness programs tailored to the company's environment. With her unique insight gained on both the client and agency levels, Shauna's ability to create and deploy purpose-built programs has made her a true value-add to our employee benefits clientele.

When not at the office, Shauna enjoys spending quality time with her husband and two sons.
