Cliff May joined the MJ team in 2017 as an account manager in our Benefits Consulting department. He quickly was promoted to a client executive, where he demonstrated his ability to help businesses achieve their goals strategically. Today, he serves as a consultant, responsible for assisting businesses in achieving their objectives with the most cost-effective and strategic options that align with their business needs. Cliff's passion lies in helping clients develop a strategic approach that reduces costs and enhances employees' understanding of their benefits.

Prior to joining MJ, Cliff served as a business development account executive at a local logistics company. In this role, he honed his skills in nurturing client relationships and expertly managing client services. Cliff continues to build strong relationships with clients and carriers, ensuring clear communication and optimal results making him an invaluable member of the MJ team.

Outside of work, you can find Cliff maintaining an active lifestyle by going to the gym, doing hot yoga, traveling, and playing golf. Beyond his personal and professional pursuits, Cliff is committed to giving back to the community by generously contributing his time to various charities.
