Neha Byati joined the MJ team as a graphic designer in the Benefits Consulting department. Her role involves managing the complete design process for clients, from ideation to final delivery. Neha creates custom health and wellness resources for each client, ensuring that their brand identity is reflected in every element, from logos to collateral and communication materials.

Prior to MJ, Neha honed her craft in a variety of creative design roles, accumulating a wealth of experience along the way. In these positions, she played a pivotal role in creating diverse design assets that perfectly complemented each client's overarching strategy. Neha collaborates with the team to seamlessly align her designs with the client's communication strategy. Her ability to deliver exceptional results while maintaining a professional approach makes her a vital asset to our organization.

Outside of MJ, Neha enjoys cooking, riding her moped, gracefully dancing to her favorite music, and traveling. Neha loves to socialize and build connections, as she is often the host of get togethers with friends.
