“What do you do with what you’re given, and how do you transform it into something worthwhile?” — Donald Fagen

Will Christiansen joined the MJ team as a risk management associate in our Risk Management + Commercial Insurance department. In his role, Will participates in rotational training across the business units departments, building foundational expertise in risk transfer, policy administration, and the full client journey. From supporting the renewal cycle to working through policy lifecycle tasks—audits, endorsements, certificates, and more—Will has developed hands-on skills that translate directly into exceptional service for clients.

Will brings real-world exposure to the industry. Before stepping into his full-time role, he interned in a commercial insurance setting as well as in financial advisory services. His internship with the Risk Management + Commercial Insurance team gave him a firsthand look at MJ’s collaborative culture, the people, and the commitment to clients which are all factors that ultimately drew him back to join the team full-time. That foundation, combined with his dual academic background in finance and risk management, have positioned him to grow quickly and contribute meaningfully from day one.

Outside of MJ, Will is a college sports enthusiast who also loves music, travel, and a good movie or TV binge. He’s got Europe on his bucket list for his next big trip and if his taste in music is any indication, there’s likely a concert or two on the itinerary.
