EXPERTISE

Healthcare Risk Management

Josh Britton joined the MJ team as director of the national healthcare practice within our Risk Management + Commercial Insurance department.

With more than a decade of experience advising healthcare organizations on complex risk management and insurance strategies, he brings specialized expertise to hospitals, health systems, physician groups, behavioral health organizations, social service organizations, and other healthcare providers across the country. At MJ, Josh leads the firm's national healthcare practice, helping healthcare organizations navigate risk, strengthen financial performance, and make more informed decisions in an increasingly complex environment.

Prior to joining MJ, Josh served as corporate insurance manager for a national healthcare provider, overseeing insurance programs supporting more than 575 facilities in the United States and internationally. He also served as Attorney-in-Fact for a multi-state healthcare group captive, providing strategic oversight of governance, underwriting initiatives, vendor management, and board engagement. Josh's experience includes developing innovative risk financing solutions, alternative risk programs, and complex insurance placement strategies for healthcare organizations. He is passionate about delivering strategic guidance that helps healthcare leaders balance organizational growth, operational priorities, and long-term risk management objectives.

Outside of MJ, Josh can be found hiking and spending time outdoors, especially when it means exploring somewhere new with his family. He's already got his sights set on a bucket list adventure: a rim-to-rim hike through the Grand Canyon.
